The first of these is the fact that the government has been unable to maintain a stable currency. The value of the dollar has fallen sharply since the war, and this has led to a loss of confidence in the dollar as a unit of exchange. This has in turn led to a loss of confidence in the government's ability to manage the economy. The second of these is the fact that the government has been unable to maintain a stable political system. The country has been plagued by a series of military coups and political assassinations, and this has led to a loss of confidence in the government as a whole. The third of these is the fact that the government has been unable to maintain a stable economic system. The country has been plagued by inflation and unemployment, and this has led to a loss of confidence in the government's ability to manage the economy.
 The fourth of these is the fact that the government has been unable to maintain a stable social system. The country has been plagued by a series of social problems, including poverty, crime, and drug addiction, and this has led to a loss of confidence in the government's ability to manage the country.
